The Cakos Legacy

Spiro and Mary Pat Cakos in 1985 at an event in the Pompeian Room on the Doheny Campus

"We give to the Mount because the College does an excellent job of educating students, particularly those who are underrepresented in higher education," Mary Pat Burns Cakos '41 wrote to a prospective donor in 1995.

A dedicated alumna and supporter for more than 55 years, Mary Pat and her husband, Spiro, never missed an opportunity to praise the College and to help deserving students. Because they wanted to ensure that their support of the Mount would continue perpetually, they thoughtfully and generously set up a trust provision in their estate plan to establish the Spiro and Mary Patricia Cakos Endowed Scholarship Fund with a $100,000 gift.

After Mary Pat passed away last year, Spiro further honored this commitment by an outright gift toward the Kresge Challenge. To recognize the Cakos legacy, the College has placed a plaque in her memory in the new J. Thomas McCarthy Library on the Doheny Campus.

MOUNT SCENES

Sister Rose Catherine was a gifted teacher who loved life.

Remembering Sister Rose Catherine Clifford

Alumnae Directory Survey On Its Way

All alums will receive a survey form for updating personal and work information for the new Alumnae Directory 2000. These forms will be mailed the first week in November and will be due by Thanksgiving.

The Mount Community was saddened by the death of Sister Rose Catherine Clifford on June 7, 1999.

A Los Angeles native, she was born Mary Julia Clifford on October 27, 1908, the third child to Thomas and Mary Clifford, and was soon followed by six more children. The family relocated to Lompoc and later to Oxnard, Calif., where she began her Catholic schooling.

In 1926, at the end of her secondary education, she entered the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, and the next year was given the name in religion of Sr. Rose Catherine of the Sacred Heart. She made her vows in 1929 and was assigned to teach high school history, art, math, Spanish, Latin, religion and home economics.

She earned her B.A. from Mount St. Mary's College in 1942, completed a master's degree in history at UCLA in 1948 and began teaching history at the Mount in 1955. During the course of her doctoral studies, her research notes and two-thirds of her dissertation were destroyed in the Bel Air fire in November 1961. She was given a sabbatical by the College and awarded the prestigious Haynes Fellowship in history from UCLA, which gave her the opportunity to recreate her thesis "England as Papal Fief: The Role of the Papal Legate in the Early Period 1216-1241." In 1972 she received her doctorate in history. She returned to the Mount in 1963 and taught until her retirement in 1989, serving as chair of the history department for a portion of those years.

Sister Rose Catherine was a gifted teacher who loved life. She is best remembered for keeping in touch with her former students, for her clever and witty remarks, and for her knowledge of flowers and animals.

Nationwide Search Underway For Next MSMC President

The Search Committee for the next president of Mount St. Mary's College has been active in identifying candidates who can lead the College when Sister Karen M. Kennelly retires June 30, 2000. Reports on the progress of the search have been made to the Trustees, Regents, Mount Associates, Alumnae Board, and Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet. At the opening convocation of the fall semester in late August, faculty, staff and administration had an opportunity to be informed about the search. Students were also updated on their return to campus.

The Mount Board of Trustees has directed that the next president must be Catholic with an earned doctoral degree, possessing high academic and personal standards. Within these guidelines, the committee has developed a leadership statement, under the headings of academic vision, community leadership, expertise in resource development, and dedication to the Catholic nature of the College, to guide decision making.

Announcements of the search for the next president have been published nationally in the Chronicle of Higher Education and the Chronicle of Philanthropy, and in letters sent to the four other C.S.J. provinces, the C.S.J. Federation congregations, and to 200 Catholic colleges and 70 women's colleges through the following organizations: the C.S.J. Consortium of 13 colleges, the Association of Women's Colleges, the Association of Catholic Colleges and Universities, and the Independent Colleges of Southern California.

A Presidential Search Web page was added to the Mount's Web site, inviting applications and nominations. The full leadership statement, as well as the Mount mission statement, is available on the Web, along with the names of committee members. You are encouraged to explore the Presidential Search information from the Mount's home page (www.msmc.la.edu). Nominations, comments, and questions for the committee are welcome. You can contact the committee at the Chalon Campus address (Box 64), telephone (310/954-4226), fax (310/954-4209); or by email (presidentalsearch@msmc.la.edu).

Mount Recognized Again As Top-Tier Regional University

The Mount was recognized again as one of the top 15 regional universities in the West, according to the 2000 edition of U.S. News & World Report's "America's Best Colleges" guidebook, published in August.

"We are pleased to be recognized again for our achievements, as we prepare to celebrate our 75-year anniversary in 2000," says MSMC president Sister Karen M. Kennelly. "Our ability to consistently achieve top-tier rankings in U.S. News is a tribute to the quality of the students we attract and the dedication of our faculty, alumnae, and staff. It reinforces our dedication to being a liberal arts institution serving a diverse cohort of students (primarily women) in the pursuit of their academic and professional goals."

In addition to being ranked thirteenth overall, Mount St. Mary's was also recognized as the number one private regional university in the West for the diversity of its student body. According to Kennelly, "This recognition further reinforces that we are fulfilling the mission established by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet when they founded the College in 1925, as they sought to identify the needs of the community and find ways to serve them. The fact that the Mount's student population is a reflection of the increasingly diverse population of Southern California tells us we are on track in fulfilling that mission."

U.S. News & World Report surveys over 1400 colleges and universities in preparing its annual "America's Best Colleges" guide. It is one of the most comprehensive reports of its kind and is used by students and parents in making decisions about where to pursue a baccalaureate education. The rankings use a combination of factors, including academic reputation, graduation and retention rates, faculty resources, student selectivity, and alumni giving. The rankings were included in the regular issue of the magazine as well as in the "America's Best Colleges" guidebook and the U.S. News Web site www.usnews.com.

Alumnae Association Q and A

Q. Does the Mount have a memorial wall?

A. The Mount does not have a memorial wall but we do have a Memorial Book in the vestibule of Mary Chapel on the Chalon Campus. When the Office of Alumnae Relations is notified of the death of an alum, we send a Memorial Mass card to the family, make special mention at that year's Founders Day Mass and enter the name in the Memorial Book. Alums returning to campus are encouraged to check the book when visiting the Chapel.

"One goal I had was to get the reader to laugh and cry, sometimes on the same page," says Fletcher Jones Endowed Chair in Writing Marcos McPeck Villatoro about his recently published novel, "The Holy Spirit of My Uncle's Cojones" (Arte Publico Press).

A coming-of-age novel, "Cojones" centers on the life of a suicidal 16-year-old boy, Tony, who is sent to California by his mother to spend the summer of 1978 with his womanizing, disreputable Uncle Jack. Thinking that this would be good for young Tony, his mother fails to see the dark world to which she is consigning him. However, lessons are learned. "Tony begins to discover that there's more to the man than the macho cliché of family legends, while Jack helps him come to grips with his young manhood," writes Villatoro.

His fourth novel in 17 years, "Cojones" is Villatoro's first attempt at using humor in his work. "After writing three serious books—one historical novel set in 1932 El Salvador during a massacre of 30,000 people, one collection of Spanish/English poetry, and one memoir of my life working in Guatemala—I wanted to try my hand at comedy," he says.

The Mount Names New Members to its Board of Trustees

Three new members have been named to the Mount St. Mary's College Board of Trustees. Barry Patmore, James Flanigan and Sister Marilyn Binder, C.S.J., join the 25-member board which is the key governing body of the College and is comprised of business, professional and community leaders.

A partner of Brentwood Venture Capital in West Los Angeles, Barry Patmore serves as a member of the board of directors for KCET and chairs its Strategic Planning Committee. He is a member of the Pepperdine University Advisory Board and has served on the boards of the San Mateo Suicide Prevention Center, the Washington Children's Home Society, Eastside Catholic High School and the Bellevue Chamber of Commerce.

Patmore received his bachelor's degree from the University of British Columbia and his MBA from Columbia University in New York.

Los Angeles Times Senior Economics Editor and Columnist James Flanigan, a 1961 graduate of Manhattan College, began his career at The Times in 1983 working as columnist for the New York Bureau. He began writing as a business columnist in Los Angeles in 1986, became senior writer/business columnist in 1991, and senior economics editor in 1996.

He received the 1991 Greater Los Angeles Press Club Award for a Business/Financial Column and the 1988 John Hancock Award for Excellence in Business and Financial Journalism for his nationally syndicated business and finance column that covers both regional and international concerns.

Mount Students Beat Tough Competition

How do you beat the competition in an advertising campaign when their resources are huge and yours are next to nothing?

Ask the Mount St. Mary's College chapter of the American Advertising Federation which placed 3rd in its district at the 26th annual National Student Advertising Competition held at the Skirball Cultural Center in West Los Angeles.

Considered to be the "underdog" by its competitors, the Mount's 13-member team proved to be anything but, in the Toyota-sponsored competition which challenged students to design an integrated advertising campaign for Toyota's new subcompact car, ECHO.

Mount St. Mary's was pitted against seven major colleges and universities from across Southern California, including UCLA, CSU Fullerton and Pepperdine, all of which had "huge resources," according to Dennis Morgan, business professor and team advisor. "Our students had sheer talent going for them—no budget, no resources—just talent," he says.

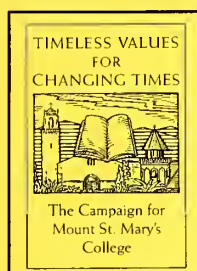

This is the second year the Mount has competed in the event, and the first time it has done so voluntarily. Senior Fay Johal feels the team's confidence in their campaign made up for their lack of resources. "I feel that the fact that it wasn't a requirement and that we didn't have to do it, but rather wanted to do it, helped us achieve this success," she says. "We believed in what we were presenting and I think that made our presentation a lot more effective."

C.S.J., is principal of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Elementary School in Santa Barbara, California. Binder received her bachelor's degree in history and her master's in education/administration from Mount St. Mary's, and is a past director of residence and campus minister for the College. Currently, she is a board member of the All Saints Episcopal Pre-School and the Outdoor School Committee for the Los Padres Council of the Boy Scouts of America. She has previously served on the boards of the Daniel Freeman Hospitals, Carondelet High School, St. Mary's Academy, Caregivers, House of Ruth and Marymount Elementary School.

A HOUSE BLESSING

By Kelly Kester-Smith '88

If there are 32 kids in the living room, it must be Friday afternoon at Alexandria House. And standing capably and enthusiastically at the helm is Victoria "Vicky" Lopez, a Mount St. Mary's history major, and director of a unique afterschool program for inner-city children ages five through 11.

During her sophomore year at the Doheny Campus, Vicky enrolled in the required Social Action class. As part of the curriculum, Sr. Maria Angela Mesa, Doheny Campus Ministry director, requires students to volunteer their time and talents to nearby agencies. "When I went for my interview at Alexandria House," recalls Lopez, "I thought I was going to be a volunteer. Instead, they hired me to run the Afterschool Program ... and I'm studying to be a lawyer, not a teacher!" True to her word, she still wanted to volunteer, so in addition to her Monday through Friday duties, she provides translation every other Saturday for the neighborhood Women's Support Group.

Located in an impoverished and densely populated neighborhood in the mid-Wilshire area of the city, Alexandria House, also known as "la escuela" (the little school), stands as a safe haven for homeless women and children, as well as a neighborhood center and locus of community organizing. Founded in 1996 by Sr. Judy Vaughan '68, Alexandria House provides essential survival and support services to a working poor, recently immigrated population.

One of its most urgently needed and acclaimed programs is the Afterschool Homework Program offered weekdays throughout the year. Resident and neighborhood children gather each afternoon to participate in homework groups, one-on-one tutoring, special celebrations and enrichment activities. Sixteen children attend on Mondays and Wednesdays, and an additional 16 come on Tuesdays and Thursdays. But on Fridays, watch out! All 32 children arrive with energy to spare. "The greatest challenge is getting all of the children in place at the same time," says Lopez. "They're bussed from all over the place, and arrive as they can."

As director, Lopez's duties include overall program coordination, volunteer management, informal counseling, and, occasionally, conflict resolution. "I love knowing that I've helped to create a place where kids can come and have fun. They tell us that if they didn't have Alexandria House they would be at home alone playing Nintendo for hours at a time, or else playing outside on a busy street without adult supervision."

Many of the participants' parents are monolingual and are unable to assist their children with English language homework. Vicky has discovered the greatest satisfaction in, "knowing that we provide a safe transition from school time to family time."

And parents benefit as well. As a result of a survey of nearby residents conducted in 1996, Alexandria House initiated "English as a Second Language" classes in fall 1996. Currently, several parents attend classes on Mondays, and interest continues to grow.

According to Lopez, one of the most remarkable things is how much parents trust the staff. "Sometimes parents will come to me and ask me to translate very personal documents for them because they can't read English. They feel very comfortable talking to us and asking us for help," she says. More importantly, parents trust the staff's guidance and discipline of the children. "They truly feel that we are here to help them."

Now a senior at the Chalon Campus, Lopez is preparing for graduation and law school. "But I can't imagine not being a part of Alexandria House," she confides. "I love all of the people at the house—those who live there, and those who work there. We share our stories, and our dreams. I'll continue to help out at Alexandria House, and help my people, in my capacity as a lawyer ... although everyone here keeps trying to convince me to be a teacher," she grins.

Victoria Lopez embodies the best of both her liberal arts education and her proud Latina heritage. Through her example of generous service, the College continues a proud heritage of its own: Mount students don't wait until graduation to start making a difference in the world. M

Validating the Mission,

Mount Trustee Chair Defines Board's Role as More than Governance

BY DON DAVIDSON

As chair of Mount St. Mary's board of trustees, Sister Jill Napier, C.S.J. '71 plays a pivotal role in the College's strategic direction. She is certainly well qualified to perform in that capacity, having been associated with the Mount for more than 30 years. First as a student, then as an employee in the business office at MSMC while earning her MBA, Napier has spent her entire professional life in education.

She sees the board of trustees' role as larger than the traditional and legally defined one of governing the College. "We partner with the administration in validating the mission of the Mount," she says, "and we challenge the College to evidence its infusion in its various programs and departments."

Napier sees many challenges in the Mount's future. Among them is the issue all colleges and universities are facing—staying financially viable and affordable. "It is critical that we strengthen our endowment," she explains, "in order to offer the kind of financial aid that is needed to allow access to students desiring the opportunities offered at the Mount."

Napier continues, "The success of our current capital campaign has allowed us to expand and update our physical facilities as well as our academic programs. Both campuses have been provided with the technological infrastructure to accommodate distance learning, teaching and research. Though blessed by these improvements, we must be willing to adjust our methods of administration and teaching to fully utilize the opportunities offered the College by these advancements."

Additional challenges lie in the path of providing an education steeped in the Catholic tradition. "We need to ensure that we retain our emphasis on developing the spiritual character of the students we teach at the Mount," she says. "We should strive to integrate discussions related to issues of justice, ethics and morality in all the disciplines—it should permeate everything we say and do. Since our founding in 1925, we have maintained our strong commitment to the education of women and the formation of Christian leaders, who will contribute to society through their service, influence and strength of character. We must ensure that our tradition of meeting this need in our society is kept alive."

Napier's life as a woman religious began after she was a student at the Mount. After graduation, she worked for three years as an elementary school teacher in the inner city and came to a gradual realization of the importance of spirituality in her own life. "Teaching forces you to get in touch with your values and articulate them," she recalls. "It made me realize what I valued most in life." She became a member of the C.S.J. community shortly after that and is grateful for the numerous blessings and associations that have come with that decision.

Her professional life spans 25 years of involvement in the local community—first as a teacher, then as a principal, and most recently as an administrator for the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, which constitutes the third-largest school district in Southern California. With 100,000 students and 6,000 teachers, Catholic education is a vital part of the lives of the youth in Southern California. Among the challenges the Mount faces, she asserts, is finding ways to translate the Catholic values that students learn in those schools into their college plans. Partnerships with MSMC and those schools can help in advancing that agenda.

"By establishing the Center for Cultural Fluency and the Center for Urban Partnership," Napier explains, "the Mount has strengthened its relationships in many areas of the community beyond Catholic elementary and secondary education. As a resource for our neighbors, the Mount must continue to draw on its status as a leader in cultural understanding to engage the community in an ongoing, values-centered dialogue."

This engagement extends to the Mount's board of trustees. Napier is currently working full time on advancing her candidacy for her Ed.D. at Pepperdine University. As she contemplates her dissertation, she notes, "I am leaning toward investigating the elements that inspire and develop an effective board. Boards such as ours are made up of dedicated and generous women and men who desire to make a difference in their lives and the lives of others. The Mount's trustees are a special group of people who serve as important spokespersons for the College. Our challenge is to provide the means for our trustees to make that difference—to tap into their particular gifts and talents for the sake of our students." M

meet again in the United States Embassy in Estonia.

Love...and Service

BY BARBARA DOBROTT STAPLEFORD '54

In July, along with Mary Frances Ross Kasimatis '54 and our husbands, I began the first leg of a European journey at the United States Embassy in the Republic of Estonia by visiting our dear friend, Ambassador Melissa Foelsch Wells.

Mary Frances and I met Melissa at Saint Monica's Grammar School and it is no surprise to us that her early dreams of public service have been achieved to such an extraordinary degree. The daughter of an opera singer and a brilliant physicist, she was born in Tallinn, Estonia, and arrived in California as a young child. In the eighth grade, when most of us were struggling to understand current events, Melissa was discussing global politics. When we tried to memorize maps of European countries, she had already been to many of them.

After graduating from Saint Monica's High School, the three of us attended Mount St. Mary's College. Melissa has always attributed her success to the Mount because it was there that she learned that a woman could do anything.

Our small, caring college also gave her the opportunity to select and excel in specific course work that led to her matriculation into the foreign service school at Georgetown University. She received her B.S. in this program in 1956, the first woman ever to achieve this, and in 1991, was honored by that university with an honorary doctorate degree.

During her foreign service career, she had two assignments in Brazil, and served in France, the United Kingdom, Trinidad and Tobago, Switzerland, and Uganda. She was United States Ambassador to Zaire, Mozambique, Guinea-Bissau, and Cape Verde, and held several posts within the United Nations.

We remained friends throughout the years, and she always invited us to visit her wherever she was assigned. Now we were together in Estonia and I still muse over my initial naïve question: "So Melissa, do you go into the office most days?"

Over meals in the embassy dining room, on china bearing the official seal of the United States, we learned that Ambassador Wells works 55 to 70 hours a week with total dedication and joyful zest for her mission to this developing country, which emancipated itself from Soviet control in 1991. She is studying Estonian and finds this assignment, to which she was named in October 1998, particularly meaningful as it has brought her back to the country of her birth. She also speaks French, German, Italian, Portuguese and Spanish!

To me, the most impressive part of our visit came from following her daily activities, a multitude of business and social interactions directed toward representing the United States' interests in Estonia and the Baltic area. While we were there, she met with the Israeli ambassador, had conferences with various Estonian officials and representatives of local business interests and supervised while her staff prepared an Independence Day party for 500 guests.

Mount alums can take great pride in Melissa's amazing success. She is a Career Member of the Senior Foreign Service, with the rank of Career Minister.

During our five-day stay, we had great pleasure meeting her husband, Alfred W. Wells, a retired architect, hearing about the couple's two sons, and reminiscing about our high school and Mount days. We left Estonia enriched and inspired by our friend's energy and dedication to her work. M

Note: Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania border the eastern coast of the Baltic Sea and comprise the Baltic States. Formed in 1918, they remained independent republics until their involuntary incorporation in 1940 into the USSR.

The United States never recognized the forcible incorporation of Estonia and the other Baltic republics into the Soviet Union. Following the restoration of Estonian independence on August 21, 1991, the United States opened its embassy in Tallinn on September 4, 1991. To follow Ambassador Wells' work, see www.usaid.ee/wells.html to read more about the Republic of Estonia, see www.usaid.ee/mission.html

HONOR ROLL OF DONORS

Sister Karen M. Kennelly, C.S.J., President

"We progress toward the new millennium and our 75th anniversary year with a great sense of gratitude to all who have brought us to where we are today."

ANNUAL MESSAGE TO THE COLLEGE COMMUNITY

We take great pride in our accomplishments and in some new records set during the 1998-99 academic year.

COLLEGE UPDATE:

Use of library facilities at Doheny doubled during the opening year of the Sister Magdalen Coughlin Learning Complex. The inviting, comfortable atmosphere offers a quiet place to study not only for our own students, but also for residents from the local community and even some USC students. New databases and resources are being added and updated continually; the individual study rooms are in constant use, and the 24-hour study room is a haven for those who utilize it late at night or in the early morning hours.

We began our academic year with a ranking in the top 11 Regional Universities in the West in the 1999 U.S. News & World Report "America's Best Colleges" guidebook.

Thanks to the combined efforts of faculty, admissions and financial aid, advisement, student affairs and many others, the College continues to set enrollment records. Last year, our 2,022 students in undergraduate and graduate programs represented an all-time high.

CAMPAIGN AND FUNDRAISING:

The Kresge Challenge played a large part in the grants we received this year: $500,000 from the Ahmanson Foundation, $250,000 from the Fletcher Jones Foundation, and a pledge of $250,000 from the Leavey Foundation. Including these gifts, we have raised more than $2 million needed to meet the Challenge. We also received a Henry Luce Foundation grant of $150,000 to support the Center for Urban Partnership. We are particularly grateful for the continuing support of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet of the Los Angeles Province who have pledged $100,000 for the Campaign and for scholarship assistance for our many needy students. Alumnae giving increased to a new record of 29 percent, a great indication of the appreciation our alumnae have for their alma mater and a very critical part of our success. Currently, 200 alumnae return to the Mount each year to assist with recruitment, and to serve on career panels, the alumnae board and various alumnae committees.

A number of alumnae as well as other friends of the College became members of our Heritage Society last year by making a planned gift. As of this past July, the Society was 192 members strong—and growing.

STUDENT RECOGNITION:

Student recognition and achievements were outstanding. Laura Cansicio '99 received a prestigious Coro fellowship, which will provide her with intensive experience-based training in public affairs. Other May graduates will be pursuing advanced studies this fall at such outstanding universities as American University, California School of Professional Psychology, California Institute of the Arts, the School of Critical Studies, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Creighton University, Chicago Medical School, Columbia University, Golden Gate University, Whittier Law School, Pepperdine Law School, Purdue University, University of Rochester Medical Center, Slippery Rock University (PA), New York University, North Texas University, Mount St. Mary's Physical Therapy Master's Degree Program, St. Louis University, and University of the Pacific Law School.

It is also exciting to note that Summer Research Fellowships were awarded to 14 of our undergraduates, several of them receiving up to seven offers. These exceptional students spent the summer months conducting research at Boston University, Brown University, Caltech, the University of Rochester Medical Center, Purdue University, Michigan State, the University of California, San Francisco, Vanderbilt University, and California State University, Los Angeles. The Mount entered its ninth year of participation in the Minority Access to Research Careers program under the very capable direction of Sister Annette Bower, chair, biological sciences, with a grant of $282,000 to support the kind of research undergraduates need to pursue if they are to succeed in advanced studies and medical professions.

The 1999-2000 academic year marks my last year as president at the Mount. The Presidential Search Committee has been very industrious in developing a leadership statement and launching a public search. You can keep posted regarding the search process and all sorts of college activities by tapping into the MSMC Web site at www.msmc.la.edu.

I'm sure the new president will be inspired, as I continue to be, by the College's commitment to its mission as a Catholic college in the spirit of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet. We progress toward the new millennium and our 75th anniversary year with a great sense of gratitude to all who have brought us to where we are today.

May God bless you and yours.

Sister Karen M. Kennelly, C.S.J.
President

Great Mount of Service

Service has always been an integral part of the Mount experience, and for nearly half a century the Pi Theta Mu sorority has provided students with opportunities for service to the College and the community at large.

Created in 1953 as an honor service sorority, Pi Theta Mu recognized graduating seniors who had contributed outstanding service to the College and their community during their undergraduate years.

The sorority was reorganized in 1959 to become a sophomore service sorority to which members were elected for a one-year period. At the time, membership was limited to no more than 20 students who were chosen at the end of their freshman year to serve as the official hostesses of the Chalon Campus.

Today, Pi Theta Mu boasts a membership of over 70 who commit themselves to a minimum number of hours of service every year.
